Pope Francis, in Laudato Si talks about "big picture thinking". Like the owner of the vineyard, we are called to work for the common good, to have a preferential option for the poor, to raise their voices and the voice of the earth, the vineyard. The owner of the vineyard pays everyone the same, regardless of their work. This may sound ludicrous, but parables often leave us puzzled. We might ask the question: what would our society look like if everyone was raised up and empowered? The more we can provide meaningful work with a just wage for all, the more everyone will feel included and can be given the opportunity to flourish. In Laudato Si', Pope Francis urges those in power to work for the "universal destination" of the world's goods and that everyone has the right to their access. (LS, 93). He says, "the rich and the poor have equal dignity, for 'the Lord is the maker of them all' (Prov 22:22; cf. LS, 93).
